FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

1. How should I use Elicina?

Elicina should be applied twice a day, over clean skin. We recommend that you use both natural, non abrasive soap and clarifying or tonic lotion (astringent) to better prepare the skin for the benefits of Elicina. Once the skin is clean, cover the area to be treated with a thin layer of Elicina cream, and massage gently, with circular motion, until completely absorbed. You can follow with any moisturizer and/or makeup of your choice.

Elicina should not be applied more than twice a day in facial skin. You can use it as many as four times a day in any other part of the body. To fade hand spots, you must use Elicina every time after you wash your hands.

2. Can I continue using my regular creams and/or makeup in conjunction with Elicina?

You can use any type of product, lotion, makeup or masks WITH THE EXCEPTION of exfoliant products or any cosmetics that contains glycolic acid. Elicina already exfoliates in a more natural, gentle way!

3. Does Elicina work on old scars?

As a general rule, every old skin lesion is harder to fade away than when treated at an earlier stage. However, fading of old scars can be accomplished, but it will take longer. Best results can be obtained but it takes longer, 3 to 4 months of daily use (twice a day). For body scars, it is possible to apply Elicina three times a day. We do not recommend three times a day applications on facial skin, since it is more delicate and might not withstand 3 daily applications well.

Remember to be consistent in Elicina's use in order to see results. You must have in mind that all skins are different; some will see results before others.

4. After my pregnancy I ended up with many stretch marks, can Elicina help me diminish them?

Stretch marks have three phases:

1st - Purple colored stretch mark: this is the stretch mark in its first phase and is easier to fade away applying Elicina.

2nd - Pink colored stretch mark: second phase, here it is still possible to diminish the stretch mark although it would take longer.

3rd - White colored stretch mark: third phase, there are not many surgical or cosmetic solutions to deal with this problem. Nevertheless, many users have experienced improved appearance of these type of stretch marks after 4 months of regular, daily use, the stretch mark will have improved texture and color.

Results depend on two factors, firstly the phase where the stretch mark is at that point, and secondly, on the type of skin. All skins act differently from one to another. Generally, people who use Elicina have seen results in the first month of use: consistency is of most importance.

The most effective treatment when dealing with stretch marks is prevention: To avoid stretch marks appearing during pregnancy we recommend using Elicina throughout this whole period in the more susceptible areas. With only 2 applications a day you can avoid these undesirable marks on your skin.

Furthermore, Elicina has an extremely rapid absorption. You don't have to "wait 15 minutes" for it to absorb and then dress. In seconds you will be ready to go and the best of all is that it is odorless, a factor that could complicate any pregnant woman's existence, quite a bit. That is quite a difference with the common, greasy stretch mark creams available!

5. Could Elicina help me fight my psoriasis?
